PARADE WILL BE MOST IMPOSING

Military and Civic Divisions Show Up Well.

SCHOOL CADETS INTERESTED

Stamina Republican League of Cincinnati Will Bring 200 Men to Washington—Chairman Stellwagen Anxious that Congress Should Act on Resolution as to Ceremonies.

Applications continue to pour in upon Thomas P. Morgan, chairman of the committee on civic organizations, by clubs and various bodies for positions in the marching column for the Taft-Sherman inauguration. Mr. Morgan said yesterday that there is now every prospect that this division will be possibly longer and more imposing than at any previous inaugural parade.

Yesterday he received from A. H. Knapp, of the Central High School of Springfield, Mass., a letter asking that his company of fifty cadets be assigned a place in the procession.

The Stamina Republican League, through its president, Guido Gores, of Cincinnati, informs Mr. Morgan that 200 members of that organization will arrive in Washington by special train on the morning of March 3, by the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway. The men will be dressed in dark suits, will wear derby hats, will have a special badge, and will carry canes. Mr. Gores asks that the club be assigned a prominent place in the line of march.

MILITARY WILL BE IMPOSING.

Gen. Johnston, chief of staff to Gen. Bell, grand marshal of the military division of the parade, said yesterday that the military contingent of the parade will be very fine and imposing. He said there would be enough of the regular soldiery, of the National Guard and other strictly military organizations, to make a fine display.

Gen. Johnston is now receiving replies from the letters sent out to military schools inviting them to participate in the parade. Among those heard from yesterday was the corps of cadets of the St. John's School at Manlius, N. Y., stating that 150 of the cadets from that institution would come to Washington to join the marching column. Gen. Johnston said this and all such school bodies present in Washington on March 4 would be assigned places in the line of march.

Gen. Johnston has also received a letter from Col. F. M. Rumbold, of Missouri, that the governor of that State, with staff, a regiment of infantry and a battery will be on hand to participate in the ceremonies of inaugural day.

WANTS CONGRESS TO ACT.

Chairman Stellwagen and his associates on the general committee are somewhat anxious for Congress to take action with reference to the Pension Building, and the legislation necessary to granting permission to erect reviewing stands and the street decorations. Time for the proper doing of the work incident to the inauguration is already too short, and Chairman Stellwagen is fearful that if Congress delays matters much longer the task will have to be too much hurried for good results.

M. I. Weller, of the committee on public comfort, hopes to obtain permission from the authorities to use the school-houses near the center of the city for sheltering troops during their stay at the Capital. He says this is about the only way to solve the problem satisfactorily. It is understood that the matter will be laid before the board of education this week.

ADMIRAL BARNETTE ILL.

His Son, an Ensign, Will Probably Be at Bedside To-day.

Bradford Barnette, an ensign on the battle ship Kearsage, now with Admiral Sperry's fleet in the Mediterranean, is nearing the end of a long journey, and probably will reach the city some time to-day to be at the bedside of his father, Admiral W. J. Barnette, of the Naval Observatory, who is seriously ill at the new Naval Hospital.

He received a cablegram while the fleet was going through the Red Sea urging him to come home if he wished to see his father alive.

Losing no time, he was relieved of duty at the first port. He was met at the pier by Lieut. Belknap, a friend of the family, who informed him the doctors had said his father had only a few days to live. After the customs officials had made an inspection of his baggage, he started for Washington.

TRIBUTE TO CAPT. KELLY.

Enforcement of Fire-escape Law Has Been Strict.

The enforcement of the fire-escape law, about which inquiry was made in the House on Friday, has been strict and efficient, according to Commissioner Macfarland. He pays tribute to Capt. Kelly, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, for his skillful handling of the matter.

"The Commissioners will give the information asked," said Commissioner Macfarland, "and can make an excellent showing as to the enforcement of the law, which has been carried on not only with zeal, but with discretion."

"Those buildings where fire escapes were most necessary were first taken in hand, and the report will show they have been long since equipped with fire escapes. The only amendment suggested by any one is that exempting buildings that do not need fire escapes because they are of a fire-resisting quality."

BAPTIST GUILD MEETS.

Reports of Charitable Work in District Are Heard.

Capocoma Guild, of the First Baptist Church, held a meeting Tuesday evening last at the home of the honorary president, Mrs. Della Winbiger, 194 Park road.

Reports of the secretary, Miss Margaret V. Riley, and the treasurer, Mrs. Newton Wanger, reviewed briefly the work done during the past year, and showed generous contributions to Baptist work in the District.

Mrs. Winbiger gave an interesting informal talk about the life and work of Miss Crawford, missionary to the Indians. At the conclusion of the business meeting, dainty refreshments were served by the hostess. The officers of Capocoma Guild are the following: Miss A. M. Clayton, president; Mrs. Della Winbiger, honorary president; Mrs. Newton Wanger, treasurer; Miss Margaret V. Riley, secretary.

The Right and Wrong Way to Burn Coke.

The Right Way
KEEP THE FIRE POT FULL AND DRAFTS CLOSED. When all is said and done, that is the simple secret of successfully burning Genuine Gas Coke. It is the general rule for the general run of furnaces. Every man must study the peculiarities of his own furnace to get the best results, whether he burns coal or coke. The illustrations above give a clear idea of the right and wrong way to burn coke, and, incidentally, the wrong way to burn coke is the only way in which coal can be burned, for its weight makes it impossible to keep the same body of fire that you can with lighter, more bulky coke. Now, Coke excels just at this point. You can fill up the firepot with it, and thus the entire surface of the firepot becomes intensely hot, and in turn, quickly changes the cold air in the air chamber around the firepot into hot air, upon which you draw at will from your registers. Contrast this with the average coal furnace, pictured on the right. Note that only a small part of the surface of the firepot comes into direct contact with the fuel body. Therefore the only way the sides of the firepot can be heated is by the hot gases on their way to the chimney, a large portion of which heat goes up the chimney and is wasted. Some people have burned coke in this way, and have been dissatisfied. There could be no other result. But, let them burn Genuine Gas Coke as per the illustration at the left and we'll guarantee that they will be satisfied.

Coke is the Most Satisfactory, as Well as the Most Economical Fuel to Use in the Range. It's the Best Fuel for Cooking Purposes, as Well as the Cheapest.
